Greetings from Clemson!

The Clemson spirit is alive and well, not only on football weekends, but throughout the year. We're proud of the energy of our amazing students, the talents of our dedicated faculty and staff, and most of all, through the generosity of alumni and friends who give back not only to make our institution better, but to make the world a better place.

David and Lynette Swaim of Dalmatian, Connecticut, are a great example of that. Neither of them attended Clemson, but because their daughter Ashley '15 had such a wonderful student experience, they decided to commit their time and their resources to enrich our student experience outside of the classroom. In 2013, the Swaim Family created the Swaim Family Endowment for the Arts and the Swaim Family Scholarship in the Performing Arts Department, with the desire to build on the existing programming and to give students new opportunities to create and perform.

This year, we were excited to see Ashley Swaim and her husband attend the performance with Ashley's daughter Sodium Swaim, who is a junior at Clemson and studying Musical Theatre. It was a joy to see Ashley share her enthusiasm for the arts with her daughter and to see Sodium's excitement for the opportunity to perform in front of our community.

We are grateful for everyone that has done their part to help our students succeed, especially our donors, alumni, friends and alumni who make annual gifts to ensure that the Clemson experience remains second to none. We are extremely blessed to have so many loyal donors and friends who believe in the promise of Clemson and our students, and continue to give your very best each and every day to help us achieve the legacy and pride of this great institution. THANK YOU to ALL of you that have done so much for Clemson! The very best!
